ATTACHMENT A Scope of Work

Wastewater surveillance provides early detection of emerging diseases to improve public health interventions. When combined with other surveillance data including clinical cases, hospital bed utilization, and laboratory testing, wastewater surveillance data can give a broader scope of disease surveillance to public health departments. Considering the geographical size, population density, and diversity of Harris County, consistent sampling of wastewater for SARS-CoV-2 and potentially other types of pathogens or markers would provide invaluable insights into the health of the community. Led by local public health departments, wastewater surveillance operations must be conducted in collaboration with area wastewater treatment plants.

Wastewater surveillance has proven to be a reliable method of passive monitoring for the presence of viral or bacterial caseloads of pathogens in the wastewater influent, shed by infected individuals. Wastewater monitoring serves to estimate disease burden at a community level, providing data that signifies areas that are most at risk and need increased testing/vaccinations. Wastewater surveillance provides a more equitable approach to obtaining positivity rates in underserved communities, including the hispanic and black communities, disproportionately affected by COVID-19 and other emerging diseases. Each Party will foster a collaborative research relationship with the other that is focus on development of wastewater epidemiology and testing initiative.
